Juneteenth Now Recognized as Official Emory University Holiday

Emory University will recognize Juneteenth as an official holiday beginning this year. Juneteenth will be observed on Monday, June 20, 2022, for university staff, faculty and students.

This brief workshop will pursue three major aims. First, it will provide participants with an understanding of the ways in which Alzheimer’s disease impacts the affected person’s daily life and the family’s life as a whole. Second, the session will present strategies for managing the challenges as they arise in an individualized and meaningful way. Third, the workshop will offer practical suggestions about how family members can cope with their own reactions to loss, from a death to divorce. They will learn why some people are stuck in a grief rut as they discuss more healthy ways to grieve.

Meditation: Connecting Call to schedule your spot to join “The FSAP®: Sipping Inward Healing for you and your family” on March 28th. Participants in this community can practice meditation, Emory University and Emory Healthcare are making some administrative changes to the retirement plans for Emory employees. Zoom link will be sent out with reminder. To reduce the costs and complexity of the retirement plans, Emory University and Emory Healthcare are making some administrative changes to the retirement plans for Emory employees.

Changes to Retirement Plans Coming Sept. 1
